Some won, some lost, but the 2008 Teen Choice Awards—Premiering tonight, Monday, August 4th at 8PM ET/PT on FOX—is a must-see even. With Miley Cyrus hosting and performing “7 Things,” Mariah Carey singing “I’ll Be Loving You A Long Time,” and talent like the Jonas Brothers and David Cook appearing, how could anyone pass up a chance like this? There are tons of awards from Choice Comedian to TV Fresh Face. I predicted the winners last Wednesday on my radio show, but I won’t tell you how well I predicted.

Miley Cyrus puts her dancing skills to the test when her crew M&M (With Best Friend Mandy Jiroux) face off against the dance troop ACDC. The faceoff started out on the internet and is now ready to take it to the stage. Who will be the dance-off champion? Well, it’s up to the Teen Choice Awards live audience to decide. Fergie will judge the crowd’s loudness to pick the champion. I’ll tell you one thing though: it wasn’t who I thought was the best.

Don’t forget to find out the results of the Do Something Award, $100,000 given to one teen with a serious cause. From educating kids about the environment to stopping smoking, one teen’s life will change. The contestants are pictured aside.
